

PJR SERVICES BULLETIN

This month we are celebrating PJR going viral! Nearly 5000 views on just one of our Youtube videos- and counting...

A while back we told you all that we were launching our Youtube channel, providing an insight into the various jobs we carry out during our working day. The videos have evolved and the channel has quickly grown from regular updates in the yard to Christmas and Easter specials and 'how to' tutorials.

We are gradually building traction, including gaining 'likes' and comments from some well known tool and machinery brands that we use across our sites.

So it's amazing to see that our instructional Youtube video of the team showing others how to lay Everedge metal lawn edging, has now achieved approx 4900 views! Seeing a comment from Everedge themselves saying how much they liked the video is really encouraging. It's definitely a video you can use to help you at home, but for larger sites like the one in the video- give us a call and we can install for you. Please check us out on YouTube and let us know what you would like to see more of. We are always keen to hear from you.

FROZEN FLORALS

Not the sort of weather we have come to expect at this time of year, but this picture of icicles hanging from some flowers was taken on one of our morning Spring jobs! One of our grounds workers Dan M, managed to capture it beautifully so we thought we would share it with you. Hope the team had their body warmers on that morning!

PAUL'S MONTHLY TIP...

We are often asked to clip back trees and hedging around this time of year, but before we do we always check for any nesting birds. Many people are unaware that it is prohibited to intentionally disrupt their habitat. So it is really important to check from April through to August, when they tend to make their homes. Nests often have to be empty and chicks to have flown before work can take place. If in doubt the RSPB are on hand to offer further advice and information.
